

Why does your support matter?

Because every teen deserves to be healthy, safe, and successful.

6750+ teens have been helped through therapy and medical services.

Last year, nearly 7,000 teens received critical medical, behavioral health, and health education services through Teen Health Connection - thanks to donors like you.

Our team of eleven therapists (and Pixie, the Great Dane therapy dog) are helping teens face anxiety, depression, sleep problems, school performance issues, family conflict and more in a positive way - thanks to donors like you.

Behavioral Health Services are addressing the challenges teens face.

WHY YOUR
support
matters

Started in 2012 as a data-driven conversation starter among adults and teens, Teen Health Connection's The Big Picture has become a reality check for the Charlotte community. The production brings to life public health data from the perspective and experiences of local high school students who create and record short video vignettes - thanks to donors like you.

Teens need us now more than ever. Today's teens face a myriad of challenges, from anxiety and depression to pressures at school to violence and relationship conflicts. Being a teen today isn't easy. But you can help!

Your gift makes an impact on the nearly 7,000 teens we serve annually through integrated medical and behavioral health services, teen leadership development, health and parent education, research, and advocacy.

Our teens are our future. Make a gift today!
